Let's work together towards A WASTE FREE MIAMI

JOIN THE MOVEMENT

A groundbreaking effort to reduce waste and pollution in Miami's waterways

WHAT | Miami's CAP Assessment

- CAP: Circularity Assessment Protocol - We are actively working with the City of Miami and the University of Georgia to understand how our city's waste management, social behaviors and marketplace trends create waste and pollution.
- GOAL: Reduce plastic waste, trash and debris from collecting in our waterways and littering our streets and parks.
- WHY: When this waste enters the waterways of our magic city, it pollutes our rivers, bay and the ocean, posing a threat to our health, economy, environment and wildlife.
- SO FAR: Research teams have collected on-the-ground data and assessed management of plastics at the community level.
- NEXT: The final report is close to being released! It provides science-backed data and recommendations to inform city-level decision-making which can clean up pollution in our communities and waters, but we need your help to make that happen!

HOW | Join your neighborhood's working group

- We need your input to determine the actions for your community, because we know those who call your neighborhood home know it best!
- Residents like you can join the working group to review the report from our research teams and develop the action plan for your community together.
 - 2 - 4 applicants will be selected to join the working group
 - Working groups will meet every other week, starting in late January
 - Meetings will take place virtually or in-person as decided by the group
 - All working groups will be led by a facilitator
 - Interpreters will be provided for spanish and creole speaking members

WHY | We need partners like you

- The CAP has been implemented in 10 countries and 26 cities around the world, but this is the first time it is being done in a major US city.
- We're partnering with local organizations to share news and information about the CAP and meet City of Miami residents to start the next step!
- NEXT: We need partners like you to help turn information into action. You can be a part of these trailblazing first efforts for our city, our country and our world's oceans.

COMPENSATION | We value your time

- This is a compensated opportunity to take action in your community. Your time is valuable to us, so you will be rewarded for your commitment.
- You will receive honorarium payments commensurate to your level of engagement in your working group, starting at $75/hr.
